Description

As she walked down the stairs from the loft, she could see the sun rising like a fire. Across the horizon, when she sat on the window seat and stared out into the dawning of a new day, she could see the water rippling onto the shore to greet the stones for the first time that day. Catching a glimpse of movement, her eyes focused on her husband displaying a stringer of fish caught that morning in River Bend. This would be the first of many memorable weekends and vacations at Stone Brook.
